CE – Steps to Diagnosing Plant Problems

Today's Objectives

1. Identify the plant, common and scientific name
2. Define it's cultural needs
3. Define known likely pest problems
4. Define it's known problems with the information currently at hand
5. With the information known – could this be a biotic problem?
 1. What probable insect or disease problem
 2. What additional questions should we ask to help with diagnosis of this biotic problem
6. With the information known – what are the possible abiotic problems?
 1. What possible environmental problem
 2. What additional questions should we ask to help with diagnoses of abiotic problems?
7. What science-based answers based on the list of possible diagnoses?
8. What resources would you provide to the client?

What's eating my rose leaves? - Fortuna

When I lived in Lodi, I had around 200 roses and I never had this problem before. It must be something that is different here and not in the hot valley.

Golden Maple – Ferndale

Description of the problem or question

Kay has some golden maple trees that developed some kind of fungus, which in turn caused some black gunk, which then attracted bees. Organically, what can Kay use to treat and/or prevent this from happening again?

For Plant Problems: Describe:

- what it looks like
- when you first noticed a problem
- where plant is located
- age of plant

Golden maple trees developed a fungus that caused black gunk on the trees, leaves and dropped on the ground below it. Please see pictures.

Discussion

- What problem(s) do we see?
- Do we need additional information to form our diagnosis?
- What are our recommendations?
- What resources do we send to the client?
