

Meeting notes of December 10, 2024

David gave us an update on the email misdirection into the spam folder. There were some days that there was more spam than emails. But it seemingly is fixed. Everything is being changed to help@mastergardenerSD.org. It will be a process getting it changed in every publication and location but the redirection of all emails to this new address has seemed to fix the problem. Hidden in the background is the landing pad is now on Workspace. We will also work on a better form for the website adding important information gathering. Nate volunteered to work on this.

Canned responses: David will take care of updating the canned response, removing the CE from our signature as well as continuing the monthly newsletter update.

Voles: Cindy did some extensive research on the difference between voles and gophers. The voles leave visible paths between the holes on the top of the lawn and leave visible food in the holes. There was none of this in the Pest Notes.

Hotline questions for the new class: Liz requested volunteers to review and update the answers to the Hotline/AMG questions given to the new class during most classes. Kim and I will split this task.

DigIt articles: I put out a plea for 2025 DigIt article writers. I still need six volunteers for the following months: April, June, July, September, October and November. Please let me know which month you can take.

Plant Clinic: We discussed copying the Santa Clara MG group's zoom plant clinic. The group was very favorable to exploring this further. Cindy and I will work on more details and share at the next meeting.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, February 11 4 pm.

Have a restful holiday season,

Linda
